

The Recovery Program at Work

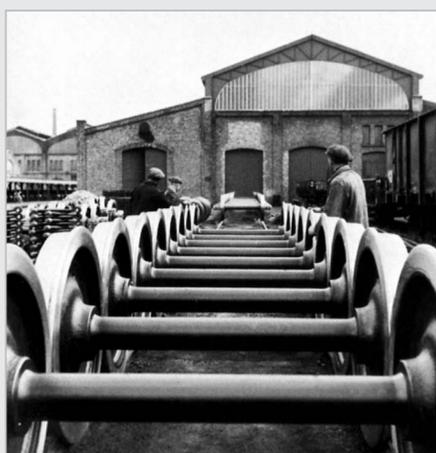

Roads for Recovery

Library of Congress

Building a road in Palermo, Italy.

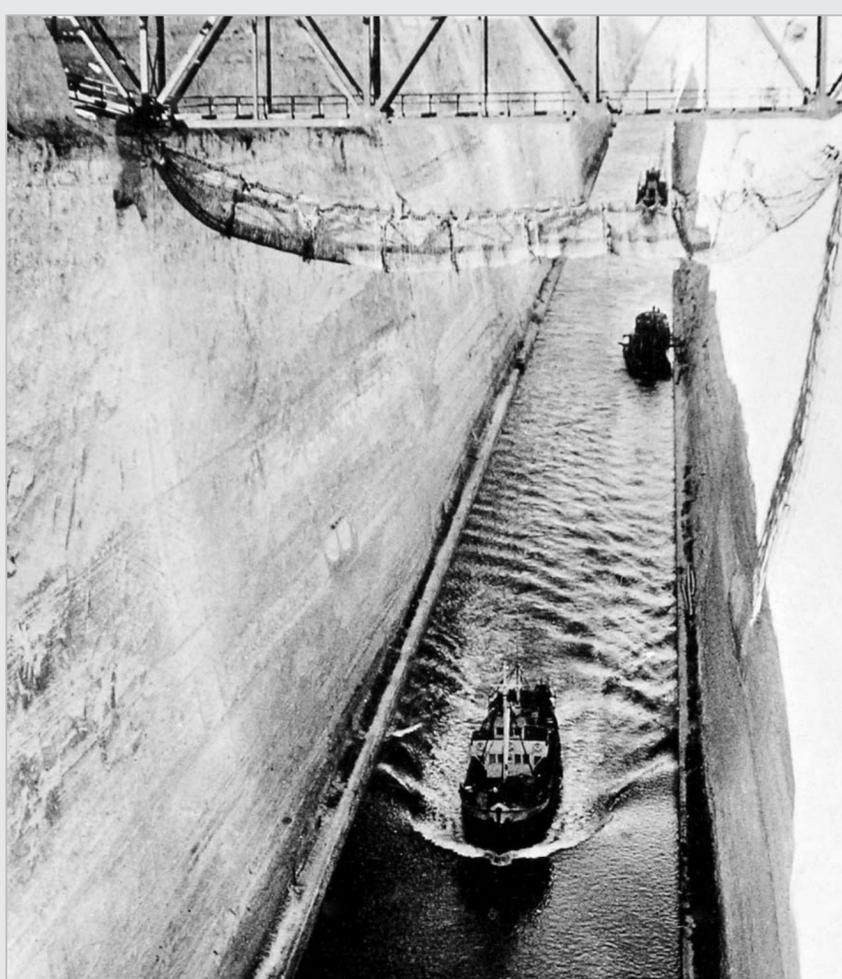

Marshall Plan dollars were used to modernize transportation systems, helping spur intra-European trade and economic integration. Road-building, railway and other infrastructure projects were essential to the success of the Marshall Plan.

New rail car wheels in Belgium

Sporty Italian transportation for a new generation

Greece's Canal of Corinth, now cleared, is critical for navigation. It had been blocked with rubble by retreating Nazis.