District Response Plan

- In emergency situations that affect public safety, law enforcement will be among the first responding agencies. In the District of Columbia, residents, businesses and visitors depend on the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) to ensure the protection of life and property. The MPD responds to all threats to public safety occurring within the city, while simultaneously providing basic police services in neighborhoods. It is essential that MPD be prepared to maximize resources and capabilities, to ensure that critical tasks are undertaken efficiently and effectively when a major threat to public safety exists.

Make a plan

- Hold a family/company meeting and develop an emergency plan. As your business may already have a plan – be familiar with it.
- Draw a floor plan of your home/office and mark two escape routes from each room.
- Learn how and when to turn off utilities (water, gas, and electricity) at main switches.
- Create your own emergency plan for your family at <http://makeaplan.dc.gov>.

Evacuation

- In some emergencies, you may be told to evacuate your home/business or neighborhood. Officials will tell you when to evacuate and what routes are open.
- Evacuation by Walking
- Evacuation by Car or Other Vehicle
- 19 primary evacuation routes out of the city.
- They are clearly marked with signs directing motorists to the Capital Beltway (I-495) and beyond.
- During an emergency, stay tuned to your local emergency station Radio station (1650 AM)

Shelter in Place

- It is more dangerous to be outside in some types of emergencies. In these emergencies, the best, safest response is to "shelter in place." This means staying inside a safe building—your house, workplace, school, or other building—or entering a nearby building and seeking cover.

If you are asked to shelter in place

- Shelter in a room with the fewest doors and/or windows possible. Ideally choose a room that has just one door and at least 10 square feet per person.
- Seal doors, windows and fireplaces
- If the emergency is airborne (such as a disease, chemical release, or radiation) turn off ventilation and hot air heating systems (radiator heat may remain on).
- Keep at least one phone line open for emergency calls.
- Stay tuned to your radio or television, or scan official websites for information and updates.
- Use your Emergency Go Kit.
