

Summer Institute for International Counselors

JUNE 15-18, 2015
GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Each year, the College Board's Summer Institute for International Counselors brings together new and experienced international school counselors from all parts of the globe to engage in dynamic discussions and interactive sessions on U.S. university admissions.

This professional development program includes comprehensive workshops led by chief enrollment officers at leading universities and international school counseling experts. Institute attendees leave with an expanded professional network of international school peers and university admission professionals, as well as with strategies and tools to help students secure postsecondary options that best fit their career aspirations.

Distinguished faculty include respected admission leaders and experienced international school counselors:

Shawn Abbott
Assistant Vice President and Dean of Admissions
New York University (New York, NY)

Shaun McElroy
Counselor
Shanghai American School (Shanghai, China)

Amy Jarich
Assistant Vice Chancellor and Director of Undergraduate Admissions
University of California, Berkeley (Berkeley, CA)

Sheri Neal
Counselor
The American School in Japan (Tokyo, Japan)

Diane McKoy
Senior Associate Director of Admissions
Columbia University in the City of New York (New York, NY)

Nancy Meislahn
Dean of Admission and Financial Aid
Wesleyan University (Middletown, CT)

What past participants have said about the Summer Institute:

"Even if you have a master's or certificate in counseling, the Summer Institute is a worthwhile, enriching experience."

"Besides the invaluable and insightful information of all sessions, the friendly and relaxed time with counselors with varying degrees of experience from around the world made the institute a great professional development opportunity."

For more information and to request an application, visit collegeboard.org/si-intl.