PEACE PROCESS SUPPORT NETWORK MEMBER ORGANIZATIONS

The Peace Process Support Network (PPSN) is a group of 37 leading academic institutions and non-governmental organizations, which the State Department can quickly access to support peace processes. The members of the PPSN can advise on issues from peace agreement design and implementation to building parties' negotiating capacity and advising on power sharing arrangements. The PPSN provides research and analysis, expert advisory support, and program assistance to peace processes around the world during pre-negotiation phases, active peace negotiations, and peace agreement implementation. The Bureau of Conflict and Stabilization Operations established the PPSN in 2016. The members of the PPSN are:
